

What Other Editors Have To Say

A TWO-COLUMN WHINE

Detroit bankers hold many records. The latest record established puts Job's Lamentations among the has-beens. On Monday morning Detroit bankers took their place in the hall of fame. Detroit bankers want aid in large doses. They want the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to pour gold into Dynamic Detroit. They are sore because Charles G. Dawes was given all the blue chips while Detroit bankers were given a stack of whites. Detroit bankers are alarmed at the mortality rate of vice presidents, assistant vice presidents and assistant assistant vice presidents. Financial geniuses of Detroit want Uncle Sam to call off his conservators and restore Detroit bankers to their well paid positions.

Here is a paragraph that holds a laugh for all but Detroit bankers. "Detroit is the victim of a situation through no fault of its own or of its financial leaders."

The whine pleads for aid because so many war profiteers led Detroit to overexpand. In that case Woodrow Wilson is at fault. He should have continued the war so Detroit factories could have continued manufacturing war supplies on the cost-plus basis. Detroit bankers are going out of their way to forfeit what little respect remains for them. They would have commanded more respect had they said, "We need aid. We have made some bad mistakes. We are not going to make them again. We know what is wrong and we intend to do our utmost to correct banking conditions here. Give us another chance."

WHEN HOOVER FLARED UP

Not so long ago, a senate investigating committee had a fine time exposing the questionable practices of Charles E. Mitchell, chairman of the National City Bank. Very few expressions of sorrow were heard when this willful representative of Wall Street's worst was lowered from the heights of financial eminence in disgrace. About two years ago, according to an account published in the Kansas City Star, this same banker had a rather violent verbal encounter with President Hoover and was forced to give ground. The story has leaked out that at a conference of bankers called by the president after England went off gold, Mitchell refused to acquiesce in the plan of the National Credit Corporation. His remark finally became offensive. The president then turned on the New York banker and said: "Mr. Mitchell, you were more responsible than any other one man for keeping the crazy bull market going. When we were trying to put on the brakes, you interfered with us. Now that the crash has come, you refuse to help us pick up the pieces. I have always regarded Senator Blank as the greatest social menace in the country. But beside you, Blank is a piker." This volley brought Mitchell around. May the other "Mitchells" among our bankers and high financiers meet a similar fate at the hands of Mr. Roosevelt and the present congress.—Hastings Banner.

H. A. BAUMAN DIES IN DETROIT

WAS HIGHLY ESTEEMED GRAYLING CITIZEN

Funeral Here Friday Afternoon From Residence

Henry A. Bauman, one of Grayling's best known and most highly esteemed citizens, passed away at the home of his daughter Mrs. Helen Routier, 818 Edison avenue, Detroit, at 10:30 o'clock Monday forenoon. He had been in poor health for the past year. With him during his last days were his wife and daughters Mrs. Routier and Mrs. Walter H. Woodson and her husband of Salisbury, N. C., and Esbern Hanson, Grayling.

Mr. Bauman was 72 years of age. He was born in Germany and, with his parents, while still a small child, came to America and located in Muskegon, Mich., where Henry grew to young manhood. He was united in marriage on June 17, 1892 to Miss Mollie Hanson, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rasmus Hanson. To them three daughters were born, all of whom survive—Margaret, who makes her home in Grayling with her parents; Mrs. Helen Routier, Detroit, and Mrs. Grace Woodson, Salisbury, N. C.

After marriage Mr. Bauman took up his residence in Grayling and soon associated himself with Salling Hanson Co., manufacturers of lumber. He spent much of his time supervising the lumber camps of the company, of which, in the early days there were many; and the woods operations. Besides these duties he found time to take an active part in community affairs. He served as president of the village, township supervisor and other township offices, and for 25 years was treasurer of Grayling school district. These and many other civic responsibilities he assumed and carried out with honor, much to the personal credit and the utmost confidence of the people of the community. Mr. Bauman's integrity and faithfulness to his responsibilities were never questioned. He was a 32nd degree Master, a Knight Templar and a member of the Lutheran church of Muskegon. At the time of his death he was a vice president of the Eastern Michigan Tourist association. He was a devoted reader and was well informed on affairs of the day.

He had a happy faculty of making and keeping friends. Wherever he might be, in his home town or away from home on a train or hotel lobby or wherever he met folk, his interesting personality immediately won for him attention and warm friendships. Without doubt he was better and more favorably known outside of his home city than any other citizen we have. Wherever one might travel, someone was almost sure to ask about Henry Bauman. He liked people and people liked him. In his passing Grayling has lost a most desirable influential citizen.

Funeral services will be held from the family home on Peninsular avenue at 2:00 o'clock Friday afternoon. Interment will be at Elmwood cemetery. The business places will be closed from 2 to 3 p. m. during the time of the funeral.

CITIZENS-R. R. EMPLOYEES ORGANIZE

ASK MORE EQUITABLE DEAL FOR RAILROADS

At a meeting held Wednesday evening, March 29th, at 8:00 o'clock at the Board of Trade rooms, a new organization was formed and launched into the civic life of this community.

This organization is to be known as the Grayling unit of the Michigan Railroad Employees and Citizens League. The meeting was called by Mr. H. M. Ready, representing the Michigan Central and Mr. Howard, representing the Grand Trunk Railroad.

Mr. Ready opened the meeting by outlining the purpose of the league, saying that it was primarily a move to secure through orderly legislative means a more fair competition between the railroads and their highway and waterway competitors; since the present conditions are intolerable from a railway standpoint as to taxation for the operation of rail transportation as compared to trucks and busses. He was followed by Mr. Howard, who presented some interesting facts as to what a railroad means to a community in a financial way, showing for example the present payroll in this city as compared to the one of only four years ago. He also stated the amount of taxes paid in to the state treasurer as a specific tax by the Michigan Central system for the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1932, which amounted to over three million dollars, all of which goes into the primary school fund for the maintenance of our schools.

The unit was then organized by the election of officers to carry on the work of the league, those present voting in the following: President—Ernest R. Welsh; Vice President—Dr. C. R. Keyport; Secretary—S. Flower.

President-elect Welsh then proceeded to name the following committee, and chairman thereof: Legislation—T. P. Peterson, (Chairman), M. A. Bates, C. J. McNamara, J. Bruun, M. Nellist, S. Flower.

Co-operative Enforcement—Frank Bennett (Chairman), F. May, N. Corwin, A. Hanson, A. J. Nelson.

Application for Certificates—P. W. Christiansen (Chairman), Wm. Ferguson, H. Hanson, F. Malloy, Dr. C. G. Clippert.

Publicity—O. P. Schumann (Chairman), G. Olson.

Membership—A. J. Nelson (Chairman), E. G. Shaw, Rev. H. J. Salmon, Rev. J. L. Culligan.

Mr. Ready then called upon the various officers for a few remarks, and all responded with well-chosen words.

An informal discussion then took place, and Mr. M. A. Bates brought out the fact that Grayling's share of the primary tax as contributed by railroads last year was $3,380, which is indeed a great help toward meeting the upkeep of our schools. The meeting closed by the evidence of sincere co-operation by all those present, who were representative of all walks of life in the community; each member showing an earnest desire to do his part towards making a success of what the league stands for.

Goats and Tin Cans

Goats nibble at tin cans, licking the paper labels for their salt content, which is necessary to these animals. While goats are considered sometimes to have appetites for such things as tin cans, rubber, cigarettes, etc., breeders agree that their choice is for good foods and that if they are properly fed they will pay no attention to tin cans.

VOTE ON REPEAL AND RATIFICATION

Whether you believe in the 18th Amendment or not, it is your duty as a voter to go to the polls on April 3rd and cast your ballot on the question of its repeal. Michigan voters have already expressed an overwhelming sentiment for repeal. They did this when, on November 8th last, they voted to repeal the prohibition clause in our State constitution. Now we are to decide our stand on the question from a National standpoint. This may seem confusing to some, but we must first realize that National prohibition is a question entirely separate from State prohibition. In proposing that National prohibition be left to the judgment of conventions in the several States, in accordance with article Five of the Constitution of the United States, the Congress took the only step possible in order to secure a National referendum on repeal. That most of the States had already expressed themselves on their own state laws was not sufficient. National action on the 18th Amendment itself was required.

Michigan will be the first State in the Union to vote on National repeal. They will do this April third when they go to the polls and vote for convention delegates nominated as pledged wets and dries by non-partisan county boards under the Heidkamp bill. This is the bill our Michigan Legislature passed, calling for the "convention of the people" in this state, which convention must pass on ratification or rejection of the proposed Twenty-first Amendment. This Twenty-first Amendment repeals the 18th Amendment and provides further that no liquor or beer can be shipped into any state which wishes to remain "dry." After thirty-six states have ratified this new Amendment to our National constitution it will go into effect.

Passage of the "Beer Bill" by Congress has led some to believe that any further action of prohibition was unnecessary. This is not the case. This Beer Bill has nothing whatever to do with the 18th Amendment. Congress could have passed it at any time. It is simply changing our National legal description of intoxicating liquor from those liquids containing 1/2 of 1% which was the old limit, to slightly over 3%.

LARGE CROWDS ATTENDED TOURNEY

TRAVERSE CITY CARRIES OFF CHAMPIONSHIP HONORS

Last week end Grayling basketball fans, who are numerous, and many visitors from Roscommon, Gaylord, Frederic and other places enjoyed Grayling's second annual independent tournament. It was a success from every standpoint and the Lumberjacks who sponsored it have reason to feel proud of the large crowds it drew and the fine exhibition of team-play displayed. Every team entered was first-class and no team was victor until the final gong sounded in each game.

The Traverse City Elks basketball team presented to fans now basketball should be played. Not only does this team deserve a credit of winning the title of "Northern Michigan Champions" but much praise must be awarded to the team for the clean playing and good sportsmanship displayed during the tournament. The Elks without question were superior to any team competing in the tournament, and many enjoyed watching them play.

During the opening night Gaylord eliminated Gilets Bar-B-Q of Petoskey, 22-14; West Branch defeated Cheboygan 25-14 and the Jacks staging a furious spurt in the final minute of play won from East Tawas, 30-26. In the night cap Roscommon lost to Kalkaska 31-28. It may be well stated that the Jacks found much difficulty in overcoming the East Tawas quintet, as they presented a fast and clever ball club. They led the Jacks by a safe score throughout the game until the closing minutes of the final quarter when the locals started their fast rally which gave them their victory to remain in the tournament race.

On Friday evening Gaylord put West Branch out of the running, 23-17. West Branch tried hard in the final half to even things up but Gaylord proved too good a ball club. The Jacks playing better ball than the previous night, defeated Kalkaska 33-20 in the second game.

The last game between Traverse City and Harbor Springs witnessed the downfall of Harbor Springs by a 33-28 score. Both of these teams had fine ball clubs and Harbor Merchants found it tough to penetrate Traverse City's defense to get in their close-up shots, which is their style of play. The Merchants were handicapped by injuries to some of their players, who were not available for this game. The Elks playing cool and heady ball held the lead throughout and were never in much danger as they seemed to find the hoop when necessary.

The Jacks having drawn a bye for Saturday night, left Gaylord and Traverse City to play for the finals. This turned out to be a real basketball game as Gaylord had a powerful ball team on the floor, the best in years, and they forced Traverse City to their utmost to win this game and a couple of times they threatened to take Traverse City's lead, but the Elks managed to come through again by making them count when needed, but they were compelled to use their first string players to save the game. The score was 31-27.

The Elks were given an hour's rest before playing the Jacks in the final game, during which a free throw contest was held, and won by Roscommon of Grayling, making 12 out of 15 free throws.

The final game proved to be a fitting battle to close any tournament. It was a nip and tuck affair throughout the first half with the Elks holding a slight edge at times, but the Jacks came back and the half ended with it 18 all.

In the third quarter the Jacks secured one point by the free throw route while Traverse City ran their total up to 30. For a fitting climax the Jacks held the Elks scoreless and ran their margin up to 29 and the game ended at this stage, giving a well-earned victory to the Elks, 30-20.

Bronze medals were also presented to each player, while the Jacks as runners-up received silver medals, all presentations being made by Dr. C. R. Keyport.

The Grayling Lumberjacks at this time wish to extend their heartfelt thanks to the people of Grayling and those who in any way helped to make their tournament a success. They hope to (Continued on last page)

It cost a trifle more, but I have paid dearly in the past for plaster patches and with CELOTEX I got a stronger sound deadened wall that will be free from lath marks."

BANK HOLIDAYS TEACH LESSON

It has not taken a very keen observer to notice the instant effect of the lack of money circulating in any community during the past few weeks. How welcome was the dollar or dollars brought into any community by a traveler. We learned, if we learned anything, that purchasing power is dependent not on the amount of money, but on the rate at which it circulates. Increase the rate of circulation and you increase business, employment, earnings and purchasing power. That is exactly what happens when tourists are circulating throughout East Michigan. Tourists give rapid distribution to millions of dollars the circulation of which will lend a new zest to business, improve business, and make business.

WILL VOTE FOR REPEAL

M. H. DeFoe, editor of the Charlotte Republican is generally known as a gentleman who never drinks intoxicating liquor. Neither does he use tobacco. However Mr. DeFoe looks at the question of the repeal of the 18th amendment, or its ratification, from an impartial viewpoint. His personal preferences are forgotten in his conclusion to vote for the "wet" delegate to the constitutional convention. He gives his reasons in an editorial published in his newspaper last week. It reads as follows:

Prohibition has proven a failure. The return of beer, wines, etc., will also prove a failure. We are going to vote, however, for the repeal of the 18th amendment in order to give the millions of young Americans who have never seen a saloon a chance to see the old order of things re-established. After this great group of Americans has a chance to compare the repeal program with ten years of prohibition, with which they are all familiar, it will be time to ascertain the judgment of the country on the two plans. The country has voted decisively for a new plan. The people are entitled to get what they ask for. In that sense—and that only—we are going to vote for Rev. Ewert (wet) of Grand Ledge as Eaton county's member of the constitutional convention to pass on the federal question for the state at large.

ARMY DAY

THURS. APRIL 6

Governor William A. Comstock has issued a proclamation urging that the people of Michigan observe Army Day, Thursday, April 6, "to pay tribute to the brave men of the United States Army who stand ready at all times to respond to the call to arms and likewise to the call to aid in times of distress and disaster."

As the commander-in-chief of the Michigan National Guard, and deeply interested in the adequate and proper defense of the state and nation in time of emergency, Governor Comstock approves of the plans of the various patriotic organizations in arranging for observance of the day. The American Legion, the Legion Auxiliary, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Spanish War Veterans and other patriotic groups are sponsoring the observance in Michigan, and Legion post commanders are chairmen of the committees of arrangements.

Whereas, Thursday, April sixth, has been designated as Army Day, a day sponsored by military organizations and endorsed by the Secretary of War for National observance, and

Whereas, it is fitting that on this day a grateful people should pause in the activities in which they are engaged and pay tribute to the brave men of the United States Army who stand ready at all times to respond to the call to arms and likewise to the call to aid in times of distress and disaster.

Now, therefore, I, William A. Comstock, Governor of the State of Michigan, do hereby proclaim THURSDAY, April 6th, 1933, as ARMY DAY and urge the citizens of Michigan to observe it appropriately and display the National Flag on all State buildings, places of business and homes. Mayors throughout the state are also issuing proclamations urging the observance. At many points, public exercises will be held. Flags will be displayed and there will be exercises in public and parochial schools which include the reading of the proclamations and of a statement of the purpose of the day. Lunch-club clubs will note the day in their Army day week programs and many of the theatres will call attention to the observance by means of screen announcements.

The following is taken from a statement of the purpose of the day: Army Day is designated for the commemoration of the splendid deeds and high traditions of the Armies of the United States in war and peace, and to bring the army and the citizenry closer together. In time of war nothing is considered too good for the country's forces of defense, but as time elapses following the war there appears loss of interest and the army is subjected to reduced appropriations and to scanty consideration of its needs. Yet the army is one of the principal agencies for preserving the peace, health and safety of the country. The pages of history are filled with examples of its gallantry and great services in peace times, and during emergencies and catastrophes such as the building of the Panama canal, and the relief work and policing afforded following the earthquake in California.

Therefore, the day is one on which it is urged that serious regard be given to the present defense and needs of the country, and to make certain that such plans are sufficiently adequate to insure the peace, health, and safety of the nation.

STATE PAY

INCREASES

REPRESENTATIVE BROWN KEEPS UP BATTLE ON SALARY GRABBERS
(By Elton R. Eaton)
Lansing, Mich.—Public pay roll leeches are frothing at the mouth and damning Representative Brown on J. Brown of Mason for again having delved into the state finances and revealing how the new "economy" administration has turned thumbs down on "economy."

The center of greatest disturbance over the revelations of the Mason newspaper publisher is the attorney general's office, where its payroll has since the first of the year jumped to its highest figure in the state's history.

It was Representative Brown, a Republican who a year ago made a lot of other Republicans peevish because he had the audacity to point out that state salaries and expenses were much higher than they should be in times like these.

When these Republicans returned to their rose-covered cottages among the hills of rural Michigan Representative Brown didn't take his weather eye off the state payroll as a lot of the new-born Democratic benefactors hoped he would do. Not for a minute did his vigil relax.

Now Attorney General Patrick O'Brien, son of the far northern clime who deserted it to reside in Michigan's metropolis, is raving at the audacity of a mere representative to call attention to the overburdened payroll of his office.

Representative Brown the other day pointed out the fact that under the last two weeks of the administration of Attorney General Paul Voorhies, the taxpayers of Michigan paid to the attorney general's department a total of only $3,809.96 for the salaries of the entire force.

He compared this figure with Attorney General O'Brien's (economy) payroll for the first two weeks of March of $5,280.04, an increase of $1,470.08. If this same payroll is maintained during the entire year, the attorney general's department will cost the taxpayers of Michigan this year a total of $35,281.92 more than it did last year.

"That's pretty good for these economy boys," cynically declared Mr. Brown.

"Why they have got so many people working in the attorney general's office that they have had to work out a sort of a relay plan for the boys to sit down, not being enough room in the department for desks and chairs for all of them."

That isn't all Mr. Brown has found out about this new economy theory. During the early part of the session Representative Brown and Representative Hartman introduced a bill taking the salary of the commissioner of agriculture out of the appropriation for that department. Former Commissioner Powell's salary was fixed by law at $5,000 but when taxpayers began to use turnips and cord wood for money, Mr. Powell reduced his salary to $4,000 per year.

Then Mr. Samuel Metzger of Greenville arrived in Lansing about January first with these other economy dignitaries. Newspaper readers were informed that he had taken the job that had been held by Mr. Powell. Nobody cared anything specially about that but there was some loud talking when they discovered that Mr. Metzger's economy salary had gone back to the $5,000 figure of prosperity days.

Then along came this house bill with no salary in it for the commissioner, which meant that the legislature could fix the salary at any time they wanted to and at any figure. The bill finally landed in the senate and when it came before that thoughtful body from the committee where it had been reposing, a salary clause of $3,500 had been inserted in the bill. The bill has been sent back to the house for approval with this change in it but Representative Brown and some of the other legislators say the salary clause is going out, no matter what happens.

"The commissioner cut the pay of inspectors in his department from $1,800 a year to $1,200 a year. He expects them to support their families on $25 per week and live on the road too, but he doesn't want his income disturbed. Well we're going to disturb it a bit," stated one representative.

At last the farmers of Michigan are in for some consideration at the hands of the state legislature. Representative Donald Bias has introduced a resolution calling for an investigation into the exorbitant prices charged for farm machinery in this state. Not only has he asked for this investigation but he would have the state take steps to find out if it would not be an advisable thing for Michigan to manufacture farm implements. His resolution has

NEED "HOLIDAY"

STATE SENATE LEADING CANDIDATE FOR JOB IN THE "BLOW MOTION" MOVIES
(By S. L. Marshall)
"Cut $50,000 from your budget."

That was the import of a letter received by the Board of Trustees of Howell Sanatorium. It came from Senator Henry Glaser, of Charlotte, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee. It came after the board had spent hours trimming here, cutting there, and eliminating this and that.

It was a discouraging prospect for men who serve the state without a cent of pay. Three of these men are outstanding specialists in tubercular work. We refer to Dr. E. J. O'Brien, famous Detroit surgeon; Dr. Chadwick, brought created more interest among rural members than any other similar measure presented so far this session and unless interested lobbyists are able to kill it off, there is every reason to believe that the question will provide one of the outstanding inquiries of recent years. Representative Bias points out that while prices of farm products have been tumbling for a number of years past, the prices of all farm implements remains the same as during the hey-days of prosperity. His resolution will doubtless come in for early consideration.

Members of the house have received a bill introduced by both a Republican and Democrat which calls for some sort of regulation of the bus and truck problem of the state. While railroads are taxed and regulated by both the state and federal governments, busses and trucks so far have escaped with but minor consideration on the part of law makers.

This is due, it is pointed out to the fact that the bus and trucking business is a comparatively new industry. Supporters of the bill as presented, last week declare that the trucking business on the highways is not so new but what it has practically wrecked the railroad business—wrecked it because of the fact the railroads operate over their own right of ways while every man who drives an automobile or buys a gallon of gasoline helps to pay for the right of way for trucks and busses. The bill is one of the longest ever presented to the legislature.

Now that the state banking legislation is out of the way, the bill introduced a short time ago by Senator Orr which will place Michigan insurance companies on the same footing with out-state companies will doubtless find ready passage in both the house and senate. While it is not generally known, Michigan insurance companies have been forced to carry a much greater burden than companies located in other states, but licensed to do business in Michigan. The insurance department looks upon Senator Orr's bill as one of the most important so far presented during the present session. Members of both houses have expressed approval of the measure.

Governor Comstock's many proposals for changes in the state constitution are not finding ready approval in the legislature. The governor declared in his first message that he regarded as essential many important changes in the basic law of the state. He said in his message that he thought the constitution should be amended to permit the reduction of taxation levied upon personal property and other amendments to clarify the real estate taxation limitation amendment adopted last fall. There will be nothing like these suggestions presented at the spring election.

Possibility that the investigation of bank receiverships and fees paid to attorneys acting for receivers may extend to all parts of the state where there has been a closed bank is seen in the action of the attorney general in securing all available data he can on this subject. It was the demand of Senator Joseph Foster of Lansing that led to what he termed the "receivership racket." It has been revealed in one Detroit case where a concern has been in receivership for over three years that the receiver and attorneys have been paid a total of $87,554.87 and so far not a cent has gone to the creditors. In some of the smaller receiverships out in the state it is pointed out that receivers and attorneys have taken exceptionally large amounts in proportion to the business they have handled.

Representative Clyde Stout of Ionia would have the counties pay many of the expenses now met by the state, among them being the transportation of people by the counties to various state institutions. He has introduced a bill to this effect.

from the West to head Detroit's Herman Koffer sanatorium, and Dr. Vanderhilt of Lansing. It was a discouraging outlook for 480 tubercular patients.

Already the costs at the Howell institution are among the lowest in the whole United States. The average salary of the 211 people employed is exactly $661.27 a year (about $56 a month)—that includes doctors, nurses and on down to the scrub woman.

There seemed to be but one solution to Senator Glaser's demand. That was, to close the children's wing; send 80 TUBERCULAR CHILDREN AWAY. The board debated it. Finally they decided that the legislature itself must decide the matter.

The board wanted economy, but they didn't have the heart to TURN OUT THE CHILDREN. Also there are 400 adults lying in beds at Howell. Some of them are mothers and fathers.

Economy! Economy! Economy! ANY PRICE!
Let's see how some of the new departments at Lansing are saving the taxpayers' money. Let's take a peek into the Attorney General's department and examine the payroll.

Here are some figures:
Payroll for first 16 days of March, 1933 (Dem.)—$5,280.04
Payroll for last 16 days of December, 1932 (Rep.)—$3,809.96
Increase under Atty. Gen. O'Brien—$1,470.08
That isn't much. No, not for 16 days; but multiply it by 24 pay days in a year and you have an increase in this department of $35,281.92.

Add to it the $4,000 salary that Gov. Comstock feels it necessary to pay his Special Attorney Ferris and add to it the $4,000 salary for Atty. Young on the Public Debt Commission and you have a total increased cost of the State of Michigan's legal advice of $43,281.92 for a year.

Is this economy?
Is this why $50,000 must be lopped off the care of 480 tubercular patients at the Howell Sanatorium?

Grover C. Dillman, state highway commissioner, suggested to the Administrative Board that a surplus of army clothes be taken to needy people in the Upper Peninsula in state highway trucks. The suggestion was made at the meeting Tuesday, March 14.

That sounded sensible. There were underclothes, overcoats, suits and shoes—old to be sure, but warm. Why not give them to poor people who needed them? Fine. Everything was set. Senator William Doyle, of Menominee, and Senator Derham, of Marquette were interested in this.

But was the clothing sent up pronto?
It was not.
Why?

Bill Carpenter, state welfare director, suggested that he was the proper person to transport that clothing. It might reflect some political credit on Mr. Dillman's candidacy if state highway trucks carried the clothing. Result? Delay! Needy people suffering in cold weather. Reason? Politics.

No state officer, be he republican or democrat, was ever more strictly honest or more uncomprisingly square than Grover C. Dillman. No engineer, draftsman or other employee of this department was asked if he were a democrat or republican when he applied for a job.

If he could do the work he was hired to do, fine. If he failed, or if he was guilty of unbecoming conduct he was FIRED. If he showed outstanding ability, he was promoted. That's Dillman's way of doing things.

DILLMAN SAYS MICH. NEEDS HELP
Lansing, Mich., March 27.—State Highway Commissioner Grover C. Dillman today took the lead in securing welfare funds in letters to Michigan's senators and congressmen declaring that it was "imperative" that Reconstruction Finance Corporation laws be changed.

Mr. Dillman pointed out that the federal government must help if Michigan is to feed its unemployed. Since the federal government served its ultimatum on Michigan, no other state official has endeavored to devise ways to secure the needed assistance, he declared.

The letter follows:
"The Reconstruction Finance Corporation has notified Michigan that unless the state makes some provisions for welfare aid, future federal aid will be stopped."

"With few exceptions Michigan municipalities have pledged all available resources with the R. F. C. for the funds that have been received and utilized for relief. The Michigan Highway Department has pledged its future federal highway aid for R. F. C. funds which are being used for work-relief and which at the present time are providing a livelihood for 25,000 families."

"A year ago, the Highway Department expended more than $12,000,000 of its funds for this purpose. This year because of the need for tax relief, Highway Department revenues have been diverted to local governments for the reduction of local road and street taxes, which are a direct drain on property owners."

"Michigan and the United States cannot allow its people to starve. The Highway Department is ready and anxious to use every available dollar for this work, but help from the federal government is necessary."

"I cannot impress upon you too strongly the absolute necessity for a change in R.F.C. laws so that the Michigan work-relief program can be continued. The law should be made more elastic so that counties, townships and municipalities can secure welfare money. Speed is imperative. If I can be of any assistance, please feel free to command me."

Grover C. Dillman, State Highway Commissioner.

THE NEW CHEVROLET

Chevrolet's new entry in the automobile market—"The Standard" Six—went on public display Saturday at dealer showrooms the country over.

Although certain models are priced below the present series, now known as the Master Six to distinguish it from the Standard, the new car has a wheelbase of 107 inches.

Featuring aerodynamic styling, the new car resembles in external appearance its companion series. Three body types, also offered—coach, coupe, and sedan—will be available, all with bodies by Fisher.

Prices are, coach, $455; coupe, $445; and sport coupe, $475—all f.o.b. Flint, Michigan. These are said to be the lowest prices at which full-sized, six cylinder enclosed cars have ever been offered.

Powered by a valve-in-head six cylinder engine, the new motor develops sixty horsepower at 3,000 R.P.M., and is said to have a top speed of 65 to 70 miles per hour. It is of the same basic design as the six first introduced by Chevrolet in 1928 and now used in the Master series.

While certain features are identical with the Master series, a company statement emphasizes that the new Standard Chevrolet is an entirely new car, and not a smaller version of the Master nor a resurrection of an older model.

It is the result of two years of development work, the company states, and is a companion car to the Master series designed primarily to consolidate Chevrolet in its position of leadership in the industry, which it has held four years out of the past six, by opening up to it that market represented by people who want lowest first cost and operating costs. The new Standard six, the company claims, will deliver more miles per gallon of gasoline than any other full size car now on the market, and is ideally adapted to the needs of the fleet user and the commercial traveler.

By announcement day upwards of 15,000 of the new models were scheduled to have been built and delivered for a simultaneous national showing. The cars are being built, just as the Master series, in the company's twenty domestic manufacturing and assembly plants, and all cars bearing the Chevrolet name are built of the same materials, to the same precision limits, on the same manufacturing and assembly lines and by the same fine craftsmen.

Prominent in the features of the Standard Chevrolet are skirted fenders front and rear, which conceal all under parts of the car, safety plate glass in the windshield, finger tip seat control, the new outward flare of the rear panel to conceal the gasoline tank and other under parts, stabilized front end mounting, new transmission with non-clashing gears and silent second, downward carburetion, and new octane self first introduced by Chevrolet, counter balanced crankshaft, and many other modern car features.

In exterior appearance the Standard Chevrolet resembles the Master models except in size. One noticeable departure is on the hood, where the slanting doors of the big car are represented on the Standard series by louvers—eighteen on each side symmetrically grouped. The radiator is the popular slanting "V" type with harmonizing paint instead of chromium plate on the shell. The hood has the internally-operated catch.

The stabilized front end mounting, originated by Chevrolet, means that the front fenders, radiator and headlamps are anchored to the frame in exact center of the cross member. This enables them to sway with the body as a unit, instead of twisting with the undercarriage in rough road driving, and eliminates movements disconcerting to the driver, thus adding measurably to the elimination of body stress and squeaks.

Beneath the hood a six cylinder engine of the same basic design as used by Chevrolet since 1928 provides power for the new car. The engine has a displacement of 180 cubic inches, with a bore of 8 1/2 inches and a stroke of 3 1/2 inches. It is equipped with Chevrolet's new octane selector and a down-draft carburetor. The crankshaft has three bearings, has four counterweights, forged integrally and weighs 57 pounds.

A vane type oil pump is used, and the oiling system is the positive splash plus semi-pressure system. The carburetor is equipped with an air cleaner and a resonance type intake silencer. A centrifugal and vacuum spark advance control is used. The water pump is the impeller type located in the cylinder head. The fan is the four-blade staggered type of rubber vibration and consequent noise.

The universal joint is assembled as a unit to the transmission and is removable as a unit as in the Master model. The instrument board follows the general design of the Master series, with the panel finished in distinctive design. All instruments register by moving pointers. Dials are black with white graduations, figures and pointers. One dial on the under side of the panel lights all dials.

The speedometer stands at the left of the panel, with the combined oil and gasoline gauge at the right and the ammeter at the center top. The choke button stands at the top left and is balanced on the right by the throttle control button. On the lower left hand corner of the panel is the lighting switch, balanced on the right hand side by a dummy button for any electrical appliance that may be desired.

Five wire wheels with forty riveted spokes on a permanent drop center rim with a large diameter hub of the concentrated bolt type are standard on all models. The wheels carry a generous sized 5.25 by 17 balloon tire perfectly proportioned to balance the rest of the car from appearance and loading standpoints.

Both front and rear fenders have deep crowns and the side flange snugly follows the line hiding the springs, the steering connections, and the underside of the fenders. Front fender curvature carries into the running board, presenting a long, graceful sweep and avoiding the appearance of a sharp break at the end of the fenders.

The front axle is of the reverse Elliott type, with a conventional one-piece drop forged I beam center and integrally forged spring seats. New Departure ball bearings for the hub and king pin positions have been continued in the new car.

The rear axle follows the conventional Master Six design. It is the semi-floating type with torque tube construction and driving taken through the rear springs. The same proven construction as used in the Master has been retained and the axle ratio is the same in both models.

Four Delco-Lovejoy shock absorbers of newest design are standard with all models.

Front springs are 33 inches long with six chrome vanadium steel leaves 1 1/2 inches wide. Rear springs are of the same material and the same width, 54 inches long. Self-adjusting spring shackles so successfully used by Chevrolet during the past five years are standard equipment.

The Chevrolet-developed brakes mechanically operated, fully enclosed and of the articulated shoe type, follow closely the design of those on the Master model. The same "cut-in" system of linkage used on both cars conforms to the Hoover code and permits both front and rear brakes to be operated by either the foot pedal or hand brake with the same type of action. Drums are ten inches in diameter, with a one and one-half inch lining, affording a total service brake area of 91 1/2 inches.

The chassis features a drop channel section frame with a "kick-up" both front and rear to lower the center of gravity of the car. Five sturdy cross members provide it with an unusually high degree of safety.

The engine rests on the frame at four points known as diamond mounting. Live rubber insulates the engine from the frame, providing enough insulation to eliminate noise and vibration and yet afford a stable mounting for the power plant.

Steering arrangement is the worm and sector type, with a ratio of fourteen to one. Bodies feature the new Fisher "aer-stream" style throughout, and all bodies have the new no-draft ventilation feature which affords individually-controlled ventilation for every passenger in the car. Windshields have a slope of nineteen degrees, and all are made of safety plate glass.

All body models have large cowl ventilators, and all are equipped with concealed windshield wiper motors, the wiper return being automatic. Free turning door handle locks are provided, with internal button locks. Drivers' seats are easily adjustable on all models, and internal sun shades are supported at both ends. All hardware is chrome finished. A number of interior body accessories and conveniences are provided with all models.

Economy is stressed in all company literature, both in first cost and maintenance and operation. The company, according to President W. S. Knudsen, expects the Standard car to account for about one-fourth of its total production and sales. The car is called the lowest priced full size six cylinder enclosed car now on the market, and is claimed to operate on lower gasoline and oil consumption than any other comparable sized six now available.

Addition of this new line opens to Chevrolet three distinct markets in the automotive field, and further entrenches it in its position of leadership. It now manufactures a line of commercial cars and trucks covering ninety per

Unpopularity

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Late Dean of Mass.
University of Illinois.

Smithers was unpopular, there was really no denying the fact. If you asked one of his neighbors about him, you were likely to get a shake of the head or a shrug of the shoulders or a lifting of the eyebrows. People didn't like him. As one of his acquaintances remarked: "He hasn't a friend in the world." And yet Smithers had many good points. He was intelligent; his judgment in a critical situation could always be depended upon, when he could be brought to the point of expressing an opinion. He was loyal to his friends. He would go far to get a friend out of a hole. When you stood off and viewed him from a distance, he seemed to have very many of the qualities which make for friendship and popularity.

He never agreed with anybody. Even a trifling statement would challenge his interest. "I think you are quite wrong," he would say, and he would then point out the alleged inaccuracies in what was more than likely a most harmless statement. Even if we are wrong, we of us like to be shown up before a crowd of friends, and especially if the error is of little importance.

No matter what was being discussed, Smithers was likely to assume an air of complete superiority.

No one could ever mention the name of a distinguished man with whom Smithers was not intimately acquainted. Whether it was baseball or biology, politics or prohibition in which he shone, Smithers could always tell you more about him than you had ever imagined.

"Jim Weston?" he would say. "Sure I knew him at Burlington." or "It might be Budapest or at Berlin. There wasn't a place on earth where Smithers did not admit having been. The most striking part of it all was that he was often right in his quibbling and questioning of fact.

It was his assumption of superiority which annoyed people most and made him unpopular, his manner of assuming that you were wrong, that you had so much less experience than he, that your judgment was the judgment of a child and so could not be depended upon. He put everyone he met into a position of inferiority, and so they shunned his society as much as possible.

ON BEING AWFUL

By THOMAS ARNOLD CLARK
Late Dean of Men,
University of Illinois

Perhaps no one in the English Ministry was ever more indignantly treated while he was climbing to the head of British affairs than was Mr. Disraeli. Lord Roseberry, every bitter epithet which could possibly be marshaled against a Jew and an interloper as he was considered for many years was hurled at him, and there was no one with a blunter tongue and a more vitriolic manner in his attack upon the coming premier than was Thomas Carlyle. His sarcastic darts must have sunk deeply into the sensitive heart of Disraeli. It was a great surprise both to his enemies and his friends when, in 1874, he became the head of the British government that Disraeli should at once offer to Carlyle the highest political appointment within his power.

When some one expressed to him his surprise and astonishment at the premier's generosity to a former enemy, Disraeli said:

"I never trouble to be avenged. When a man injures me, I put his name on a slip of paper and lock it up in a drawer. It is marvelous to see how the men I have thus labeled have the knack of disappearing."

It is only the little man who troubles himself to be avenged, who tries to get even with a friend or an opponent against whom he has some grievance, actual or imagined. The great man has too much to occupy his time and attention to waste his energies in plotting revenge.

When Clayton was in college thirty years ago or so he and Brown, his roommate, were candidates for the same undergraduate office. There was nothing in the position but a little short-lived honor. In reality the game was not worth the candle. Clayton was, his friend thought, not quite fair, and ever since he has been trying in one way or another to get even with Clayton. He cannot forget the trifling incident. It has embittered his whole existence. The great man forgets and goes to higher things.

Revenge never brings happiness to anyone.

WORK-RELIEF PROGRAM CONTINUES

Already 75 of Michigan's 83 counties have taken advantage of the work-relief program devised by State Highway Commissioner Grover C. Dillman whereby welfare dependents are given constructive employment on State Highways and are paid in funds furnished the department by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. It was announced today. Already 22,000 families are being supported by the program. Mr. Dillman is the Republican candidate to succeed himself at the election April 3rd.

During the state banking holiday one phase of the Dillman plan, has been the only possible way in which many counties have continued to aid the unemployed. Under the work-relief program, counties certify to the department that they need assistance in carrying for their welfare dependents and that they will furnish labor which otherwise would constitute a direct relief charge upon the taxpayers of the county. The county however, makes no pledge to return any money advanced but does agree that all funds received for the work-relief plan shall be used to pay wages on a scheme whereby each individual is paid in proportion to his need.

Under this program, the county receives 100 cents of R.F.C. money in welfare relief as wages for labor in return for the small sum advanced by the county for equipment and materials.

The State Highway Department in turn pledges future federal highway aid funds to the R.F.C. in return for money advanced at the present time. Under Mr. Dillman's arrangement, counties that because of frozen ground or heavy snow cannot carry on highway work at the present time, can receive funds now to be repaid in highway work later in the year.

"And when the bank holiday was declared many county welfare agencies found themselves without any available funds," Mr. Dillman asserted. "But under the plan, they have received actual cash money from the department without which many welfare recipients might have been deprived of the necessities of life."

Greater safety for the travelling public is the aim behind the construction work being carried on through the work-relief plan. This includes widening grades, removal of obstructions to driving vision and the elimination of dangerous curves in highways.

event of the present they are going to picture Henry Ford as one of the greatest men, the outstanding industrialist of all time. They are going to give him credit for being an American with honest ideals and possessed of a willingness to serve his fellowmen found in few of the great leaders of the day. There is nothing insincere about Henry Ford and his offer to aid the Detroit Banking situation for no other reason than a desire to aid the depositors and the business men of the city where he lives is but a reflection of a real American who has been altogether too much misrepresented. I will present him as one of the great moral giants of all history.—Elton R. Eaton in his Plymouth Mail.

THERE'S NO PLACE LIKE MICHIGAN
Our news editor who has just finished reading an interesting story about the California earthquake comments thusly: "One consoling thought about Michigan climate; the weather may change from one day to the other, but the landscape doesn't."—Boyle City Citizen.

THE 15-MILL LIMITATION
There are many daily newspapers chortling over the action of the supreme court in ruling that cities with tax limitations in their charters will not come under the restrictions of the 15-mill limitation adopted by the voters last November. From reading some of the newspaper accounts one would almost conclude that the overburdened taxpayer was out to deliberately destroy government instead of trying to save himself and trying to save government from itself. Some of the newspaper editors seemingly are laboring under the delusion that only the state supreme court has prevented the taxpayers from bringing ruin and chaos onto Michigan. Regardless of charter limitations and regardless of the action of the state supreme court we still believe the people of the state of Michigan knew what they were about when they voted in favor of limiting property taxes to 15 mills on a dollar of assessed valuation. The wording may not have been flawless. There may have been some technical errors. But the voters knew what it was all about. They had the intention of limiting property taxes to 15 mills. They didn't know what certain city charters contained. They only knew that taxes were too high and that 15 mills would be relief.
School authorities and city officials in cities where the 15-mill limitation will not be effective because of the supreme court decision should not take advantage of that decision. The voters spoke clearly last November. Because the supreme court has now spoken differently has not changed the opinion of taxpayers that taxes should be (even though they will not be in all cases) limited to 15 mills.—Mason News.

REFORESTATION
No state in the union has more to gain from a real reforestation program than Michigan. At least two-thirds the area of Michigan should be producing a forest crop. We have discussed and debated reforestation for many years. About 10 years ago we really started to work. But our progress has been slow. This winter more timber has been slashed than has been planted for two or three years.
Michigan has millions of acres of land which should be devoted to growing trees for the following generations. A reforestation program will not only help those coming generations; it will help us. The planting of forests will hold back flood waters. Forests will make game propagation easy. Forests will bring to Michigan an ever-increasing number of tourists who now make up our second largest crop. Forests will remove marginal land from competition with more fertile areas.
Because Michigan has so much to gain from a reforestation program all of us should learn all the details of the plan before congress. We have talked about reforestation long enough. Let's hope that something will now be done about it.—Mason News.

WHAT ABOUT PAYING TAXES ON REAL ESTATE
A careful observance of the legislative and judicial acts of our state during the past few weeks causes a belief among many people that the real estate tax collection laws have been seriously impaired in Michigan and in the near future will be thrown in the junk pile with other nullified laws.
Some weeks ago the auditor general of the state took the law in his own hands and started to repudiate the law with reference to the collection of delinquent taxes. He was supported in his action later by the state legislature under a constitutional pretext of emergency police powers.
We believe the auditor general's proposal in the refusal of proceeding to collect the taxes is a direct and deliberate attempt to break down government as government business cannot be conducted without money. This money will not be forthcoming as the regular taxpayer can readily see that a class preference in the matter of paying for the cost of government is being established.

We do not believe that it is reasonable to expect that freeholders will continue to pay any tax on real estate in the future until the status of the Michigan tax collection laws are tested in the courts.

What will this mean to the proper functioning of all branches of our government and institutions?

There is only one answer. That our form of government built up over a period of years will collapse, unless some other form of taxation is devised. What will it be?—West Branch Herald.

WINDSTORM SWEEP STATE IN JANUARY!

ALSO HIT VARIOUS PLACES IN FEBRUARY AND MARCH

This is a picture of a wreck caused by a windstorm March 5, 1932. This was on the farm owned by Peter and Mary VanMalsen, section 32, Walker township, Kent county. Settlement has already been made and the loss of $375 paid the insured.

The Next Windstorm May Hit Your Buildings!

THERE is no telling when a Windstorm is coming, nor where it will strike. Since the timber has been mostly cut off the lands of Michigan, windstorms are liable to occur any season of the year, and no section of the State is safe from them.

With Windstorm Insurance as low in cost as it has been in this Big Company for 47 years, no owner of buildings can afford to be without ample WINDSTORM INSURANCE!

This Company writes a fair, liberal policy... makes equitable adjustment of losses and PROMPT payment of all just claims.

Michigan Mutual Windstorm Insurance Company

The Biggest of its Kind in Michigan Home Office: Hastings, Mich.

OFFERS SOUND WINDSTORM INSURANCE

The oldest company writing insurance in the United States today is a mutual, having been in continuous operation for nearly two hundred years. Thus, mutual insurance has demonstrated its reliability and permanence.

The Michigan Mutual Windstorm Insurance Company of Hastings, Mich., has proven its reliability, and also its worth to the people of Michigan. It has paid to its policy holders who have lost property by windstorm or cyclone over $3,800,000 during the 47 years since its organization.

At very low cost, less than seven cents for the entire 47 years on each one hundred dollars.

Windstorm insurance is not only a benefit to its members, but is also a benefit to the public at large. Since its organization the Michigan Mutual Windstorm Insurance Company has replaced and repaired thousands of buildings that could not have been replaced and repaired if they had not been well insured. It may be observed in many communities that a large percentage of farm buildings, destroyed by windstorms, that were not insured, are never replaced.

The experience of this big company has shown that, damaging windstorms may occur at any season of the year, and that no part of the state is immune from them. Already this year several severe windstorms have hit Michigan, occurring in January, February and March.

The splendid service rendered by this company during the past 47 years, its reputation for fair dealing and prompt settlement of claims and its policy of efficient business management recommends it to the thoughtful consideration of every property owner.
